Fascists Exposed at the University of Houston

THE LANDSCAPE

The University of Houston has, especially since Trump's election, been a frequent target for Texas based fascist groups to flyer and recruit at. Additionally, it appears that a number of current students on the campus are involved with a variety of fascist, alt-right, or far right groups. Vanguard America, Patriot Front, and the Proud Boys are some of the most notable organizations that students have been involved with so far. Other nearby Texas universities have also seen all kinds of fascist activity, from flyers and banner drops to flash mob demonstrations, and even Richard Spencer speaking at Texas A&M University in December 2016. A lot of national fascist organizations including Patriot Front and Atomwaffen Division started out here in Texas, and many big name Texas fascists live within or near Houston. These are some of the reasons that have motivated local anti fascists to take up action against fascists not only in the state of Texas, but the city of Houston, and specifically the University of Houston.

GOING ON THE OFFENSIVE

Hundreds of flyers depicting three University of Houston students who have a variety of ties to fascist groups were posted all over campus on Sunday night. The next morning, pictures of the flyers were posted around twitter and instagram by a number of students. One of the students who was targeted by the flyers was seen running and scrambling to tear down any flyers he could find, with a terrified look on his face.

Gabriel Grant, Chris Tran, and Adam Manley were the subjects of the flyering campaign. Gabriel Grant was a member of Vanguard America before and during the fascist rally in Charlottesville, Virginia last year, which he attended in uniform. He had been pictured at a number of other Vanguard America events prior to that as well, brandishing their flags and shields on some occasions. Chris Tran is not a fascist per se, but is a close friend of Gabriel Grant, as well as a large number of local Proud Boys, and has helped disrupt multiple leftist events on campus throughout 2017. Adam Manley was spotted posting Soldiers of Odin propaganda around campus last year and has documented this activity himself on his social media accounts. He also likes a lot of fascist organizations on Twitter and Facebook, including Patriot Front and Identity Evropa. We don't believe he is a member of these organizations at this time, but he clearly shows strong support for them.

We make no exception for right wingers who foolishly mistake themselves as “disavowing fascism” by taking the route of hiding behind the Proud Boys’ fratlike culture of toxic masculinity, western nationalism and overt chauvinism. Their movement will not be allowed to take root and poison the well in the most diverse city in the U.S.

WHITE SUPREMACIST ON YOUR CAMPUS

GABRIEL GRANT

SEEN WITH VANGUARD AMERICA

CHARLOTTESVILLE, VIRGINIA

Gabriel Grant is pictured here once at the University of Houston where he is a Sociology student (top left), again in Austin at a Vanguard America rally with other known neo-nazis (top right), and again marching in Charlottesville (bottom left) at the same event where another Vanguard America member drove a car into the crowd of counter protesters, murdering Heather Heyer and injuring many others. After these events Vanguard America rebranded itself and now operates under the name Patriot Front.

Vanguard America is an openly white supremacist organization, that seeks to turn our country into a "whites-only ethno-state" by means of the extermination and mass deportation of all non-white people under a neo-fascist regime.

This person's presence on our campus is an active threat to every person he may encounter who is not a straight white man, or who does not align with his racist, misogynist ideology.

NAZI GROUPIE ON YOUR CAMPUS

CHRIS TRAN

Student at University of Houston
"Outreach Director" of Delta Omega Chi (2016)
<https://www.facebook.com/ChristopherHMTan>

Chris Tran has been seen associating with a number of known white supremacists on campus, including but not limited to Gabriel Grant, a member of the white supremacist organization American Vanguard. He has also been known to associate with members of the UH Proud Boys chapter, some of whom he is Facebook friends with. The Proud Boys describe themselves publicly as "Western Christians" but also notoriously share strong ties and membership overlaps with more overtly white supremacist groups.

Chris is pictured above (left) next to his friend Gabriel Grant (right) on May 1st 2018 when the two attempted to disrupt a pro-immigrant Mayday rally in Houston.

BEWARE

ADAM MANLEY

Political Science major at UH
Associates with Soldiers of Odin

University of Houston student Adam Manley has been seen posing Soldiers of Odin (S.O.O.) propaganda around campus. The Soldiers of Odin is a rightwing extremist anti-immigrant group that was originally founded in Finland by a neo-Nazi named Mikko Rautia. The group has other branches in Canada and the United States. Publicly S.O.O. tries to maintain an innocent, community friendly image, but it is not uncommon for high ranking members to have strong ties with more explicitly white supremacist organizations. While their members may have varying degrees of involvement with neo-Nazi organizations, they all share strong xenophobic beliefs.

Adam Manley's attempts to associate with that group and spread their propaganda around campus is an active threat to students who are muslim, immigrants, and people of color in general.

NOTES ON TACTICS

As proven many times before, doxing can be a very effective and relatively low risk tactic to give neo-nazis what's coming to them while also discouraging participation in fascist groups. On campus its effectiveness increases even more, because students have more at stake with their college degrees on the line. Moreover, fascist students are sometimes part of other student groups on campus which can become another pressure point for a doxing campaign. Doxing also helps rightfully inform the rest of the student body of individuals who are more likely to commit acts of violence against students over things like skin color, gender, or political affiliations.

Hopefully these actions can help stake out the University of Houston as a place where fascists do not feel comfortable, and lay the groundwork for future anti-fascist activity around the city in general.
